

Privacy Protection Policy

If you retain this law firm, our policy is to protect your privacy.

At the same time, you must acknowledge that we may have to collect personal information about you necessary to do our work in accordance with your instructions.

You must also acknowledge that we may have to disclose personal information about you for purposes of doing our work. Some of this information may be sensitive.

You must consent to our collecting and disclosing your personal information in accordance with the National Privacy Principles.

Personal information about you, provided by you and other sources, is protected under the Privacy Amendment (Private Sector) Act 2000.

Disclosure of such information may be compelled by law (e.g. under the Social Security Act).

You must also authorise us to disclose such information where necessary to others in furtherance of your claim/matter (e.g. within the law practice, to the Court, the other party or parties to litigation, valuers, experts, barristers etc).
